Strauss Reveals Bomb Can Wipe Out Whole City

By ED CREAIGH
WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission said today a hydrogen bomb big enough to wipe out any city in the world now can be made.

Strauss made the statement at President Eisenhower's weekly news conference. He attended the conference to give the public a partial report on the recent H-bomb tests in the Far Pacific.

The AEC chairman said the March 1 and March 28 tests "were successful" and declared that "enormous potential has been added to our military posture."

He denied reports that the first blast, which exploded a number of Americans, Japanese and Marshall Islanders far from the explosion scene to "hot" ashes, went out of control.

"It was a stupendous blast," Strauss said. "But at no time was the testing out of control."

He said the power of the explosion was about twice what scientists had expected — a margin of error not unusual, he added, in testing "a totally new leapfrog."

An unexpected shift in the wind carried atomic particles to the area where a Japanese fishing trawler was cruising, Strauss added.

Strauss said the tests bring the commission "very much nearer" to satisfying the requirements of the armed forces and hasten the day when the AEC can devote more attention to developing peacetime uses of atomic energy.

Tugboats Back at Work in N. Y. Harbor

By JOHN BAUSMAN
NEW YORK (AP) — Tugboats were back at work in New York harbor today following the government's first success in efforts to break up the 27-day dock strike.

Since last week tugs had refused to maneuver ships in sympathy with a strike called by the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA). The walkout flared up after six months of bitter competition between the independent union and the AFL-ILA for the right to represent dock workers.

The tugs returned to work yesterday after the National Labor Relations Board got a federal court order directing the ILA to stop picketing tugboats and to see that their ILA crews went back to work.

The court ruled the tug stoppage violated a Taft-Hartley law ban against secondary boycotts.

The pier strike spread to dockside warehouses yesterday when the ILA posted pickets outside the buildings. However, only about half the port's warehouses were picketed, and operators of those struck were expected to apply for a court order that would quickly end the walkout. They would base their request on the same grounds used in the case of the tugboats.

A back-to-work movement, mostly by non-striking AFL men, continued yesterday. The New York-New Jersey Waterfront Commission reported 4,142 men were on the job, 227 more than the day before. However this was still less than a quarter of the number normally employed.

Prepare for Worst, Advises Sen. Douglas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.) asserted today the United States ought to "get ready for the worst" by enlisting forces of Pacific free nations to fight Communists in Indochina if they are needed.

Douglas, a Marine officer in World War II, called for support of President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles in seeking what Dulles called "united action" to prevent Communist conquest in Southeast Asia.

"I do not know what measures this administration plans," Douglas said in a speech prepared for the Senate. "I do not know what measures will prove to be necessary."

"I do not know what attitude the Republican party in Congress will take toward supporting the President. But reading the record against the gravity of the secretary's words, I have my misgivings."

Get that SPRING ZING in your car

By ROWLAND EVANS JR.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republican majority on the Senate Labor Committee was ready today to ram through a Taft-Hartley law revision bill that generally follows the recommendations of President Eisenhower.

Chairman H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) told newsmen in advance of a Labor Committee meeting that the bill probably would incorporate all but one of Eisenhower's 14 recommendations.

He said he has given up hope of winning approval of the President's proposal for a secret, government-sponsored poll of workers when a labor dispute enters the strike stage. He said he will try to get this plan written into the bill when it reaches the Senate floor, probably within two weeks.

He said in an interview he expects the group's six Democrats to vote together against sending the labor bill to the Senate. But the seven Republicans on the committee were expected to override them.

Before a vote on the bill itself, the committee had to pass on a newly drafted proposal to give the states and territories more powers to handle labor-management disputes. Smith said he was confident of its approval.

Youths Admit Being in Killer Car

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Police said today four teenage boys have admitted being in a speeding automobile from which 15-year-old Robert Blocker was shot to death as he stood on a street corner.

Detectives Robert Nugent and John J. Creedon said one of the four, who was not identified, had admitted firing the fatal shot at Blocker as he stood talking to two girls. They said the car had been stolen four days ago.

Meanwhile, police continued rounding up youths in a wide area of North Philadelphia for questioning in what was first believed to be an outbreak of warfare between two juvenile gangs. Two other boys have been wounded.

However, Capt. Charles E. Brown of the Homicide Squad said the fighting in which Blocker was killed was more likely a dispute over a girl.

A Senate subcommittee probing juvenile delinquency opened an office here Monday to look into the youth problem.

Formula for Millionaires Is Probably the Reason Average Man Refuses to Become Rich

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Everybody is familiar with the average millionaire's success story. He stuck his nose to the grindstone as a boy and kept it there 24 hours a day until, years later, he suddenly found his pockets heavy.

This dull formula probably explains the average man's steadfast refusal to become rich, and bored or a millionaire or a politician willing to blame his wealth or fame on something besides hard work.

The search ended with Julius Stulman, 47, a tall, white-haired Brooklyn multi-millionaire lumber dealer who looks and talks like a university dean.

Armed Arabs String Along Armistice Line

By ELIAH SIMON
JERUSALEM, Israel (UP) — Truckloads of Arab Legionnaires in full battle dress poured into Jerusalem today and dug into fortifications along the tense armistice line that divides this uneasy Holy City.

Foreign diplomats arriving in the Israeli sector through historic Mandelbaum gate said residents were fleeing from their homes in villages scattered along the dividing armistice line.

Israel was condemned yesterday by the Israeli-boycotted mixed armistice commission for the slaying of nine Arabs in the Jordanian village of Nahalin. Both Israel and Jordan were preparing to bring their charges and countercharges before the U. N. security council.

But the tension rose to a boil with the arrival of the battle-dressed Arab Legion commanded by the fabulous Gen. John Glubb. Trucks carrying the Legionnaires moved toward the old cities of Ramallah and Jerusalem, where the Arab reinforcements were unloaded.

The forecast calls for rain and thundershowers in most sections of the state today. Cloudy and continued cool weather is forecast for tonight and tomorrow.

No Danger of Radioactive Fish

TOKYO (AP) — A highly qualified American scientist said today he is certain there are no dangerously radioactive fish in the Pacific — even in waters around the Bikini atomic proving grounds.

The top-level atomic scientist talked with newsmen only after specifying that he was not named.

His statement came after a Japanese official indicated the Japanese might ask the United States to find a new testing ground if survey indicated explosions in the Bikini area jeopardize fishing and shipping.

AP&L Plans Station at Huttig, Ark.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansas Power & Light Co. today asked the State Public Service Commission for authority to string a $24,000 transmission line and build substation near Huttig.

The 115,000-volt line would connect the Huttig station with company facilities near the Arkansas-Louisiana border.

President in Support of Dulles Plan

By DONALD J. GONZALES

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower voiced full support today for Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' proposal that the free world take united action against Communist aggression in Southeast Asia.

Mr. Eisenhower told a news conference he read every word in Dulles' speech delivered at an overseas press club meeting Monday. The president said he was in complete agreement.

Mr. Eisenhower was asked if united action means the United States would be ready to dispatch troops, if necessary. He said he could not give any general answer.

But he said he could not conceive of anything worse than the United States dispersing its troop strength to meet each little war throughout the world. Each case, he added, would have to be decided on its own merits because each has its own degree of interest and danger.

Two Points in State Report Light Hail

By The Associated Press

Light hail was reported in two cities today as rain clouds and cold weather covered Arkansas.

Temperatures dropped sharply throughout the state yesterday, with a little rain reported, said the U. S. Weather Bureau at Little Rock. More rain was expected today.

Walnut Ridge and Arkadelphia reported light hail during the 24-hour period ending at 6:30 a. m. today. Walnut Ridge had a trace of rain and Arkadelphia registered .01 of an inch.

Camden had the heaviest rainfall — .05 of an inch — during the period. Clarendon had .03 of an inch and many other stations reported a trace.

Temperatures last night dropped to a low of 32 degrees at Batesville, Fayetteville and West Plains. Newport had 34 degrees and Gilbert and Flippin both had reported 33 degrees lows.

The forecast calls for rain and thundershowers in most sections of the state today. Cloudy and continued cool weather is forecast for tonight and tomorrow.

Russia Ready to Offer New European Plan

By KENNETH BRADNEY

MOSCOW (UP) — Russia today handed the Big Three Western Powers a new proposal for European security which informed sources said contained a conditional offer to join the North Atlantic Pact (NATO).

(Authoritative sources in Paris said the Russians attached the condition that the United States-backed European army plan be dropped and that the Kremlin's own European security system be adopted instead.)

(The Paris informants said the Russians proposed an international conference at some future date to discuss the question.)

The proposal was said to have been contained in 10-page identical notes handed to the United States, British and French ambassadors by Russian foreign minister Vyacheslav Molotov.

Molotov called Louis Joxe of France; Sir William Hayter of Britain and Charles E. Bohlen of the United States and turned the notes over to them separately.

The 14-nation North Atlantic Treaty came into being Aug. 24, 1949, and provided for joint resistance against any aggression.

Russia was not invited to join. Original members were the United States, Canada, Great Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg. Norway, Denmark, Iceland, Italy and Portugal.

Greece and Turkey came in later.

Mobilize for Mercy, Theme of Red Cross

As this year's Red Cross campaign nears its close there are some who have not yet renewed their membership in the organization. Our chapter is making an all-out effort to enroll every adult as a Red Cross member. We heartily endorse this objective and large citizens of Hempstead to respond in full measure to the appeal.

Few organizations in the world today typify the democratic American way of doing things and helping the other fellow as completely as does the American Red Cross. Red Cross aid is freely extended to all who need it, regardless of race or creed. The Red Cross therefore belongs to all people and should be supported by all the people.

Furthermore, through our individual membership in the Red Cross, we play a part in everything the Red Cross does including the great national and international programs which extend their helpfulness to people far removed from us in time and space. We touch their lives, and they touch us because, through the Red Cross, we are all good neighbors.

So we join the Red Cross in calling for a great Membership Mobilization which will draw into its ranks all men and women of goodwill. If you have already joined, ask your neighbors to join too. If you have not yet signed up, be a good neighbor and join today.

To make it more convenient for the citizens of Hope and Hempstead County to join the Red Cross emergency quarters are now established at 118½ South Main where the plugging ladies of the Hope Garden Clubs are receiving your dollars and dispensing membership cards; furthermore, they will dispatch a messenger to your home or place of business to pick up your Red Cross contribution if for any reason our workers missed you on their first call. Don't delay—Call today Prospect 7-4612 and start your money rolling toward our 1954 goal.

Benson Stands Pat, Butter Prices Scheduled to Take a Severe Drop on Thursday

By United Press

Housewives in many parts of the country will be able to load their supermarket carts with 60 cent butter tomorrow when government price supports slip to 75 per cent of parity.

The price had already dropped in some cities, but most retailers were holding off until tomorrow.

Not all Americans will enjoy butter selling at 59 cents a pound, but the price will drop about five to 10 cents a pound in almost all markets.

The price of butter in Los Angeles, for instance, is not expected to go below 63 cents tomorrow. But the high cost of shipping it from the Midwest has kept retail prices high in that coast city.

Industry sources said the New York retail price would probably level off between 65 and 69 cents a pound, as contrasted to recent price ranges of 75 to 80 cents.

In November of 1940 the price of grade A butter rose to a high of one dollar a pound in New York. During most of the post World War II years it has stayed near the 80-cent level.

Many grocers in Milwaukee, near the rich Wisconsin dairy farms, said they would lower the price of butter to 59 cents a pound tomorrow and then set back to see if the competition will force further cuts.

Stores at Madison, Wis., slashed prices on different grades of butter to 59 and 69 cents last week when the first news of the lowered dairy support prices came. Most retailers said they planned no further cuts.

Des Moines, Ia., stores were generally cutting the price a dime to 59 cents. One store was trying to attract customers with 49-cent butter.

Many grocers in New Orleans have already cut butter prices four or five cents and predicted another cut tomorrow.

One chain (Kroger) has held prices from 81 cents to 63 in Atlanta, Ga., in an "experiment" to see how low it would have to go to make penny-wise shoppers switch from margarine.

Few merchants cared to predict long-range price fluctuations. Most agreed they would be at the mercy of the wholesale price changes of their competitors.

Despite the fact that support prices are being lowered producers have not increased their sales to the government this week as much as expected.

One cold storage warehouse operator in Chicago said this was because creameries already had been producing at capacity.

Nevertheless, today was expected to be the biggest single day of government butter purchases since March 31, 1953 when 11,000,000 pounds were unloaded on the government.

Highway Dept. to Let Road Jobs

Bodies of Two Recovered at Narrows

The bodies of two Texarkana men, Earl Wynn and Leland Burgess, were recovered from Narrows Lake Tuesday afternoon near the spot where their fishing boat capsized Monday night.

The bodies were recovered from water 30 feet deep. Waiting at Self Creek boat landing at Daisy, Ark. when the bodies were brought ashore were Douglas Kennedy and Bernie McGraw, both of Texarkana who managed to swim to safety when the boat overturned.

McGraw said the 14-foot boat capsized when the motor was accidentally knocked sideways. He said Wynn immediately went to the aid of Burgess and he went to the aid of Kennedy who is blind. McGraw said they kept up a steady servation while swimming through the darkness, but never heard a thing after Wynn said, "I don't think I'm going to make it."

11 Killed in Rural School Explosion

CHEEKOWAGA, N. Y. (AP) — At least 11 persons, most of them school children, were killed today in an explosion and fire that ripped through the farmstead annex of an elementary school in this Buffalo suburban community.

At least 19 others were burned or injured.

The bodies of 11 known dead were found in the ruins of the on-story building.

Firemen probed for others. It was believed some teachers might have been among the casualties.

French Hurl Back Attack After Attack

By LARRY ALLEN

HANOI, Indochina (AP) — The defenders of Dien Bien Phu hurled back attack after attack from screaming Vietnam shock troops early today, interspersing savage counterattacks of their own.

The French high command announced at noon that the garrison was holding all its positions.

Rested and regrouped after the beating they took in their initial assaults on the fortress in mid-March, the Communist-led rebels opened their second offensive on the heels of a violent artillery barrage.

Thousands of wildly yelling rebel troops spring from foxholes and trenches ringing the dusty hill, rimmed valley of Dien Bien Phu and charged toward the maze of barbed wire barricades guarding the French trenches, dugouts and air strip.

In event you haven't already mailed in money for Easter Baskets please do so at once. It all goes to the Arkansas Association for Crippled Children. The State quota is $8,500 and Hempstead's share is only $750. Mail your contribution to Chairman Vic Cuba Hope, Ark. today.

President Says He is Ready to Sign Tax Slash

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today he will sign the 999-million-dollar tax cut bill and believes it will help stimulate business.

The President told his new measure later in the day. He added he has every reason to believe enactment of the tax reduction will be a stimulating factor in the American economy.

Eisenhower decided to sign the bill into law — the cuts will be effective tomorrow — even though he throws his budget for the next year a billion dollars deeper in red.

The measure shot through Congress yesterday in a temporary form, with a House vote of 380-10 and a Senate tally of 73-10. It cuts excise or sales taxes on a wide range of products ranging from automobiles to phone bills. It means savings for just about every citizen who spends money.

Eisenhower told his new measure the cuts voted by Congress will reduce government revenue very considerably more than recommended.

He added that he recognized, however, that the whole field is one that is open to discussion. And he said the cut probably will have a great effect toward stimulating business.

For that reason the President accepts the reduction of taxes. He said he hoped any possible damaging effects of the bill will be kept to a minimum.

The President then said he would point out that while the tax reduction is being administered, the administration will have to put into effect the greatest single reduction in the federal budget since 1945.

He put this point at 3:17 p. m. so far this was a cutting of $1.5 billion from the budget.

which went into effect today. James C. Hargis, chief press secretary, dismissed the lingering doubts by saying the President's attitude in mentioning "late" yesterday was probably sign of tomorrow's budgeting.

Big 3 Agree to Tighten Trade to Reds

By SEYMOUR TOPPING

LONDON (AP) — The United States, Britain and France have agreed to tighten trade restrictions on the Soviet bloc in an effort to speed the end of the war in Indochina.

The agreement marked a important compromise between the European demands for free trade with Russia and the United States to keep its strategic goods out of Communist hands.

The three powers ruled on change in the present restrictions on trade with Red China, North Korea.

A communique issued after the meeting said the three nations will open talks with the other NATO nations to tighten trade restrictions on the Soviet bloc in an effort to speed the end of the war in Indochina.

The communique said the allies will work with the United States to tighten trade restrictions on the Soviet bloc in an effort to speed the end of the war in Indochina.

Pete Smith, Specialist, Leaves MGM

By Bob Thomas

HOLLYWOOD — Next week a famed Pete Smith will clean up his desk, pack a carload of books and other awards, tour some of his old haunts on the MGM lot and then check out of the studio for the last time.

Smith will end a temporarily 14-year show business career. The last half of it has been spent providing belly laughs for movie fans via the Pete Smith shorts. For this, he was given a special Academy Award last Thursday night.

Followed, wry-voiced Pete is 61, and he doesn't look it. But he says he has been in ill health during the last year and has always returned to work before recovering completely. Since the MGM retirement plan has gone into effect, he has been comfortable. As in many of his shorts, his wife was the one campaigned for it.

"For years, I fell back on the cliché, believing I would die in my office," he said in his retirement speech. "But then I decided to go to another cliché and quit while I'm ahead. My shorts are the most popular in the live-action field and have been for 11 years."

Smith may be labor still another year, but he is not going to "hang up" my belt while I'm still champing. It has been a satisfaction to be the "clerk" in my particular field. It has been a small puddle, but at least it has been the big frog in it."

Before leaving, he must wade through a flood of correspondence and letters. He has last two shorts, one called "Sports Tricks," and one called "The Man Who Came to Dinner." The latter is a typical Smith short, a typical Smith short, a typical Smith short.

Smith's retirement doesn't mean the end of Pete Smith shorts, he can still make enough to last until the end of 1955. The life of a short is three months, so his pictures will be in circulation for a long time.

What does the future hold for Smith? He is still his favorite hobby, writing on a typewriter. He has a number of book ideas on rainy days. He has a number of book ideas on rainy days. He has a number of book ideas on rainy days.

Smith's retirement doesn't mean the end of Pete Smith shorts, he can still make enough to last until the end of 1955.

delay in the price drop slash. Rep. August H. Andersen (R-Minn.) paid a personal call on the secretary earlier this week to make the same plea.

But Benson was said to be holding firm to his view that huge dairy surpluses piling up in government freezers makes the support cut necessary to comply with farm law and for the long-range welfare of dairy farmers.

Benson's order will drop the government's support price on dairy products from 90 to 75 per cent of parity beginning at midnight. Full or 100 per cent parity is the government's yardstick of a "fair" price for the things a farmer sells in terms of prices he pays for things he buys.

He has also predicted that an intensive industry-wide dairy promotion campaign due to get underway tomorrow will push retail butter prices as low as 59 cents a pound in some areas.

Farm state lawmakers — particularly those from dairy producing areas — have bitterly protested Benson's order. They claim it will "ruin thousands of farmers."

No Forgotten Roads, Areas Says Eldridge

LITTLE ROCK (UP) — State Highway Director Herbert Eldridge said today there are "no forgotten roads and no forgotten areas" in Arkansas' new roads program.

Eldridge told members of the Arkansas Public Expenditure Council that Arkansas' Highway Department is "perhaps the most non-political highway department in the nation" and its purpose is to improve traffic service "on all roads and in all areas" of the state.

"With this highway commission," Eldridge said, "there are no forgotten roads and no forgotten areas of the state. This is evidenced by the fact that work is under construction or programmed in each of the 75 counties."

Eldridge headed a list of state officials, slated to address the council at its annual meeting here today. The meeting closes with a banquet tonight at which U. S. Sen. John L. McClellan is to speak.

McClellan was expected to arrive at 12 o'clock noon by plane from Washington, address the banquet at 7 p. m. and return immediately to Washington because of the pressure of committee business.

Other speakers at this afternoon's session included State Education Commissioner Arch Ford, Welfare Director A. J. Moss, and Dr. George S. Benson, president of the council and of Harding College.

Preceding Sen. McClellan's address tonight, Dr. Benson and Miss L. Dorothy Green of Menz will be honored as the council's "Arkansans of the Year."

Democrats Try to Save Housing Plan

WASHINGTON (UP) — House Democrats found themselves today in the odd position of trying to rescue President Eisenhower's public housing program, virtually scuttled by two committees dominated by members of Eisenhower's own party.

The battle was to be joined when the House considered for amendments a $5,600,118,763 appropriation bill to finance the coming fiscal year the Public Housing Administration, the Atomic Energy Commission and more than a dozen other agencies.

Overshadowing the money allotments in the bill is a housing provision written in by the House Appropriations Committee and almost certain to be knocked out on a technicality.

This provision would limit to 20,000 the number of low-rent public housing units to be started in the year beginning July 1, with 15,000 more the following year. The 35,000 units were allowed only because the government already has contracted for them.

Thus, the Appropriations Committee flew in the face of Eisenhower's request of last January for authorization of 140,000 new units in the next four years.

CARL BELL

That the Arkansas Razorbacks would accomplish more in spring football practice this year than they did last year was to be expected.

Head Coach Bowden Wyatt and all of his assistants except George Cole had just come in from Wyoming and hardly knew the names of all the players when they opened up the off-season work a year ago. They had absolutely no idea which boys really wanted to play their kind of hard-hitting football.

Consequently, much of the 1953 spring work was designed to find out who could — and would — do what.

Wyatt called his boys together for a head-knocking early this month. Wyatt was well aware of their abilities and desires. So the 18 days ahead were devoted to instruction to improve the material at hand.

And where the squad that reported last spring had played nothing but T football with its brush blocking, this year's crew already was schooled in the single wing.

The 20 sophomores due to make the 1954 traveling squad lack experience, it's true. But remember, though, that they were picked for single wing football whereas the material Wyatt inherited last spring definitely wasn't.

All this important in fighting that the Razorbacks will be stronger next fall. The only hitch is that the opposition is likely to be stronger too.

"Great ends are made, not born," says Wyatt, "and they usually were fullbacks in high school."

The Forker coach can cite plenty of examples to back up his observation, too. He could use himself as one. He was an outstanding ball carrier in high school and a great end at Tennessee.

Or he could go back no farther than last fall when he molded Floyd Sagerly, who had been an all-state fullback at Van Buren, into an All-Southwest Conference wingman and one of the nation's top pass receivers.

Wyatt is busy trying to "make" some ends — not great ones, just adequate ones — for his 1954 team. All of the wingmen he has are raw recruits, but some of them show promise.

And there's still a possibility that he may move Preston Carpenter — who was a high school fullback and the Forker's blocking back last season — to end.

Sagely by the way, is considering an offer to play his pro ball in Canada. So is Richie Wolf, Arkansas State College's little All-America halfback. Reason: The "big ups" they pay more money.

The pessimistic note in the Razorback camp this spring was: "We don't have Lamar McHan, anymore." How many teams do have a player like him? Wyatt has a brilliant fullback prospect in George Walker of Rison and is after a junior college triple-threat who may be as good or better.

Arkansas, are reported to be hot after Jerry Ferguson, Rogers' all-state fullback.

Remember when, a few weeks ago, Texarkana High School Coach Bobby Ellen screamed because two of his athletes visited Vanderbilt and, by their own account, received football tryouts which made them ineligible for high school basketball and track? Well, one of those boys looked over the Arkansas campus last week. But he was escorted by Ellen and received no tryout.

The Big Ten TV Committee said its idea of nine regional and three nationwide telecasts of football games was better.

Death March 4 at the woman's New York home when she survived him and Gresh's 15 year old daughter, Theresa, in bed.

According to the confession, which was obtained after 20 minutes questioning by New York police officers who came here, Byers first struck Mrs. Gresh with a hammer, then stabbed her with a knife which Theresa handed him.

The body was found, covered with plaster of Paris, in Mrs. Gresh's home last Friday. Bear Gresh, 33, was arrested in the room with the body.

Byers admitted living with the Greshs for two weeks after the killing. He joined the Marine Corps nine days ago and was sent here for duty.

Mundt Hints Man Found to Head Hearing

WASHINGTON (UP) — Sen. Mundt (R-SD) spoke today of "better" prospects for a successful end to his two weeks' search for a special counsel to help investigate the McCarthy-Army row.

High Army officials have been accused by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), chairman of the Senate investigations subcommittee, and his aides of trying to get favored treatment for a drafted associate. McCarthy replied the Army sought to black-mail him into calling off a search for subversives in the Army.

The subcommittee voted two weeks ago to conduct a public televised investigation. With McCarthy stepping aside, Mundt will preside at the inquiry.

Plans for the inquiry have remained stalled, however, until the subcommittee names a special counsel.

Mundt said he will call a hurry-up subcommittee meeting today if he gets the hoped for "break" in his quest. "Three brand new names" have come under consideration he told newsmen yesterday, declining to disclose any of them.

Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.), helping Mundt in the search for counsel, assured reporters that "stalling" has played no part in the delay.

"Maybe we have been too conscientious and meticulous," he said.

Bath Operators Plan Med Center

HOT SPRINGS (UP) — A group of bathhouse operators decided last night to attempt to raise $50,000 for operation of a medical center here.

The group would use a building that once housed the U. S. Health Center here.

Ten operators agreed to organize a corporation to operate the center.

The operators were told that the federal government tentatively has agreed to convert the center for other uses. The conversion, which would cost about $150,000 to $200,000, is dependent upon a congressional appropriation.

Under the agreement, the government would place patients now receiving free care into the private bathhouses and underwrite the cost.

Lewisville, Arkansas, Teacher Wins $1,200 Lion Oil Scholarship

Almost Didn't Enter Contest . . . 12 Other Arkansas Teachers Win Cash Awards in Zone "A"

When Miss Marjorie Walker, teacher of senior English and French in Lewisville (Ark.) High School, finished writing an essay for the recently concluded Lion Oil Scholarship contest for Southern teachers, she hesitated about submitting her entry, then decided she might as well enter it.

Her essay has just won the first prize—a $1,200 scholarship, which Miss Walker plans to use to complete work toward her M.A. degree. With a B.A. degree from the University of Redlands at Redlands, California, she has done graduate work at the University of Arkansas, but has not yet decided where she will use her scholarship. Miss Walker has been teaching school for 20 years, the past 19 at Lewisville.

Mr. D. L. Pilkinton, schools superintendent at Lewisville, expressed great interest in the Lion Oil Scholarship Fund, and said all school teachers and students should appreciate the contribution Lion Oil is making in the field of education. As a representative of the high school, Mr. Pilkinton received $100 cash to purchase books for the school library.

Miss Annie Lee Moore, teacher at El Dorado High School for 20 years, won the second prize, a $400 cash travel grant. Her success was kept secret from her until she received the award in a surprise ceremony during the regular school assembly, March 29.

Thirty-nine teachers in three zones were awarded prizes in this contest. Essays were on the subject, "What Are My Responsibilities As A Teacher?" Since 1950, when the Scholarship Program began, through the end of this school year, Lion Oil will have awarded to Southern students, teachers and schools 1,075 prizes worth more than $97,000.

"RUNNER-UP" MISS ANNIE LEE MOORE

Tennessee, Mississippi Teachers Are Winners in Zones "B" and "C"

Mrs. Fred A. Boettcher, English and Typing teacher at Millington (Tenn.) Central High School, is giving students of her sophomore class a party because they encouraged her to enter the Lion Oil Scholarship contest for Southern teachers. She won a $1,200 scholarship, will use it to complete studies for her M. A. degree.

Miss Willie Mae Williford, teacher of senior English and Spanish at Greenwood (Miss.) High School, carried off a $1,200 scholarship the first time she entered a Lion Oil Scholarship contest for Southern teachers. A teacher for 33 years, Miss Williford will use the scholarship to complete her work toward an M. A. degree.

Why Lion Oil Scholarship Fund Was Established

Lion is an integral part of the South, employing more than 2,700 persons, who receive annually over $16,000,000 in wages and benefits.

Lion Oil manufactures more than sixty petroleum products which keep the wheels of Southern industry, transportation and agriculture spinning. Lion's nitrogen fertilizers enrich the soil of Southern farms...help Southern farmers produce more and better crops.

The Scholarship Fund is Lion Oil Company's way of saying, "We believe in the South...are eager to assist its sons and daughters...our good neighbors. We're proud to be 'Home Folks'—Good Neighbors!"

What this country did depended on what they did.

Dulles said the key word in his speech about instant retaliation was "capacity" and had been overlooked.

The heart of the basic decision, he said, was to have the "capacity" to retaliate instantly.

It didn't mean the retaliation necessarily would be instant. And assurance was given that American allies would be consulted before this country took action which might involve them.

Eisenhower seemed to knock down the idea of any instant retaliation by saying Congress would have to declare war before this country got into one.

Dulles and Eisenhower later were called on to explain this too. They said: The President didn't mean in every case he would not act before Congress declared war.

In some cases, such as an attack on this country, the President might have to order immediate counter attack.

Meanwhile, the United States kept getting deeper into the Indochina war, where it already had sent the French billions of dollars in equipment. Air Force men were sent there to service, but not fly, U. S. plans for the French.

Some Senate Democrats wondered whether this country wasn't getting too deep.

Eisenhower told a news conference: It is his policy to keep the United States from getting involved in a hot war everything this country does to help the French is intended to keep it from getting in too deep and there could not be a greater tragedy than American involvement in all-out fighting in Indochina.

He conceded there was some risk in everything done in international affairs. The word "risk" had an important place in the speech Dulles made Friday at the State Department.

and large, by a mental game. He pretends he is living in the year 2,000, he says, and this helps him make long-range business decisions.

"People too often make themselves prisoners of the values accepted in their own time," he said. "But much of what was accepted as true 200 years ago today is regarded as false, and much of what we accept as so now will be regarded as wrong by 2,000."

"A good businessman should be a good philosopher. He shouldn't lose himself in contemporary values, or old ways of doing things. He should engineer his thinking to catch the trend of the future, the feel of tomorrow, when the values will be changed and business methods different."

Stulman thinks that an executive who gets too bogged down with detail needs to "step out of this own frame of mind" in order to get the different slant needed to solve his business problems.

"Success in business or in life cannot be measured with a clock," he remarked. "Time itself is not important. For many years I carried a watch with me wherever I went, but I never wound it. I did this to remind me not to be bound by time."

Stulman feels the possibility of with France alone, or with France and other allies?

Once more Dulles raised more questions than he answered. If he soft-pedals this one, as he did the other, the Communists may begin to feel he talks tougher than he is.

Cities Welfare Expensive Way to Aid Aged

By LEON HATCH

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Welfare Commissioner A. J. Moss said here yesterday that "public assistance is the most expensive way of helping old people."

That's true, Moss told the Arkansas Public Expenditures Council, because federal regulations under which relief money is administered require constant investigation.

In addition to the cost, Moss said, "the old person loses his sense of dignity and personal reserve because we're always investigating him."

"The information we obtain is kept confidential but still he is subjected to the investigation," Moss suggested that two pending Congressional measures, if they are passed, would eventually help reduce the number of welfare clients among the aged, and a depression in America at this time is "utterly ridiculous," and that the world is at the door of an ever-expanding economy that will raise the living standards of all.

His idea of how to achieve this goal: For you... and you... and you... to start thinking now as if you were living in the year 2,000.

He is convinced few people become millionaires until they begin thinking like one — instead of trying to act like one.

the accompanying administrative costs. These bills call for a Social Security Administration has the lowest administrative costs percentage of any state in the nation.

"But," he added, "I maintain that that's cause for giving it administrative costs too low, services are apt to be poor, too."

Thief to Get Time for Reading

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A burglarized movie star's rooms, Kenneth Frankland Delmas Darling III, is said to have a chance to catch up on reading in San Quentin Prison.

He was sentenced yesterday to one to 10 years in prison for burglarizing the rooms of the movie star, who is said to have a chance to catch up on reading in San Quentin Prison.

The "happiest years" of his life, he said later, "have been the years I spent in San Quentin Prison."

Darling observed that this is a place "where the money lying around like a dog out of style."

Dulles Makes Speech, Then Explains It

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — It is getting so that when Secretary of State Dulles makes an important speech he is called on for an encore — not to repeat it but to explain it.

It happened after his New York speech Jan. 12. Questions were asked about that for weeks. It is happening again now after his speech in New York March 29.

On Jan. 12 Dulles said: This government, as a deterrent to further Communist aggression, had made a basic decision to "depend primarily upon a great capacity to retaliate, instantly, by means and at places of our own choosing."

The word "instantly" got special attention in the questions which arose at home and abroad.

Was Dulles saying this country would answer any kind of Communist aggression, no matter where or how, without consulting its allies, although the action might touch off World War III, dragging them in?

If, for instance, the Chinese Communists intervened more directly in the Communist-led war against the French in Indochina, would this country at once atom-bomb China whether American allies liked it or not?

Dulles and President Eisenhower were both repeatedly quizzed at their news conferences. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee gave the secretary a three-hour going-over March 19.

Dulles' replies, including explanations given in a magazine article, came to this:

He avoided being too specific, to keep the Communists guessing what this country would do. But if there was aggression, retaliation necessarily meant China, Russia and would be bombed. What this country did depended on what they did.

Dulles said the key word in his speech about instant retaliation was "capacity" and had been overlooked.

The heart of the basic decision, he said, was to have the "capacity" to retaliate instantly.

It didn't mean the retaliation necessarily would be instant. And assurance was given that American allies would be consulted before this country took action which might involve them.

Eisenhower seemed to knock down the idea of any instant retaliation by saying Congress would have to declare war before this country got into one.

LaStarza Is Decided on by Britisher

BY STEILIN SLAPPEY

LONDON (AP) — Don Cockell, Britain's former blacksmith-brother, a real triple-threat, was the man of the hour here today and 3,000 miles across the Atlantic Ocean Ocean a heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano no doubt was doing some fast calculating.

Cockell, who grew too heavy to plod his way along the light heavyweight trail, outpointed Roland LaStarza last night in Earl's Court Arena and immediately skyrocketed to a contender in the heavyweight picture.

Except for the first four rounds, the night wasn't even close. Cockell, a 2-1 underdog, took over in the fifth and piled up points the rest of the way. Some British experts had margin as wide as 8-2 in rounds.

For four rounds LaStarza looked as though he intended to do a workmanlike job on Cockell. But the Britisher caught wise in the fifth became the aggressor and broke up LaStarza's counterpunching.

"Rillis never really hurt me," said the dumpy victor. "It was nice to win. A very close-mouthed lad. His manager, John Simpson, said there have been no definite offers to fight Marciano."

"If I get an offer and it's good enough I'll take it," he said. "If nothing else comes along, well probably fight Harry Matthews in Seattle again."

Cockell was warned four times about low blows, and LaStarza and his manager, Jimmy De Angelo, both said the American would have been disqualified if it had been the other way around.

"To tell the truth," said LaStarza truthfully "I was expecting this. I was told before I came that I'd have to win by a knockout. I was slow starting and fought a bad fight. But I think I won."

Try for a knockdown Rolfe did and desperately in the 10th and final round. It was a real melee with LaStarza striving desperately to connect. But he had neither the power nor the aim. When it ended he was working so hard he didn't even hear the bell and Referee Gene Henderson had to get him in a headlock and drag him to his corner.

LaStarza weighed 189½ to Cockell's 211. The victory was Cockell's 57th against 10 losses while for LaStarza it was his fifth defeat against 54 triumphs.

Lane-Stenael Feud Continues

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The feud between Chicago White Sox General Manager Frank Lane and New York Yankee Manager Casey Stengel continues.

Lane watched the Yanks take a 3-1 licking from the Philadelphia Phillies yesterday and promptly told baseball writers Stengel was holding up a deal he wanted to make, presumably to get infielder Andy Carey.

Arriving in Tampa, Lane remarked

DENTON, Tex. (AP) — The University of Arkansas and North Texas State College split a golf match 3-3 here yesterday after Arkansas was defeated 42 by Texas Christian Monday.

In yesterday's match, Miller Barber of Arkansas fired the low of 3-under-par 67 Barber and Phil Rogers beat North Texas' Stan Mosel and Ray Ferguson 2 and 1 while Ray Barnes and Joe Boone were defeated by North Texas' Max Wilkinson and Paul Ransom one-up.

Ray Barnes shot the day's low round against Texas Christian at Fort Worth. His score was a one-under-par 70.

Pirates Riding High Atop the Grapefruit Loop

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

What's this?

The Pittsburgh Pirates atop the Grapefruit League standings, hitting home runs all over the place and one of their pitchers tossing a shutout?

The Pirates have been riding along in high gear all spring and their sluggers have been hitting—they already have 30 home runs—but not even the most optimistic Buccaneer would have predicted that 23-year-old Bob Friend would whitewash the powerful Boston Red Sox.

The he did yesterday, with the Pirates taking the decision 3-0. He also became the first of Fred Haney's pitchers to nine full innings. The Pirate fingers amassed a total of four shutouts all last season.

Friend, who has spent his entire major league career (three years) with the Pirates, gave up but three hits and walked only one. He also contributed a pair of singles.

The Chicago Cubs, with Coach Bob Schefeling at the helm, former Manager Phil Cavarretta in the stands and new pilot Stan Hack on the way, defeated the Baltimore Orioles 3-1. Johnny Klippstein pitched six shutout innings and Hank Sauer and Ernie Banks hit home runs. Joe Coleman went all the way for Baltimore, allowing six hits.

The Cleveland Indians beat the New York Giants 2-1. Old Sal Maglie continued to impress the Western camp followers by going five innings and being tapped for only one hit.

The Philadelphia Phillies nipped the world champion New York Yankees 7-6 with the Yanks' mainstays in trade — a home run, Dol Ennis hit it off rookie Bob Grim

Olson, Gavilan Both Confident

CHICAGO (AP) — Both Bob Olson and Kid Gavilan seem satisfied they are as ready as they'll ever be for their big fight and both are sticking with the techniques that brought them each a championship.

Olson, the middleweight titleholder, ended ring drills for Friday's match with a five-round sparring session yesterday. Gavilan, the welter champ, will go a couple of final rounds today.

It's Olson's 160-pound title that is at stake in the nationally-telvised (9 p.m. CST.) 15-rounder at Chicago Stadium.

Olson has reached a fine edge, say camp spokesmen—so fine that Manager Sid Flaherty wants him to take only the lightest of exercises from her on out, to avoid overtraining.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By GAYLE TALBOT

AMPA (AP) — There is a great temptation here to pick the Chicago White Sox to win in the American League this season but we intend to resist it manfully for the reason that it would not be a completely honest pick. A man has to get honest sometime.

We have a strong feeling that Paul Richards and his 20-0 boys might beat out the Yanks this time if they get a few breaks. There is a big difference between that and a betting conviction that the next World Series will be played partly at Comiskey Park.

Anyone who goes out on a limb for the Sox will be acclaimed quite an expert next fall if they do come romping in, and if your reporter has longed for many years to be acclaimed an expert at something, But — and with keen regret — we're going to pass up the opportunity.

To begin with, he must expect to get the same great pitching from his twin aces, Billy Pierce and Virgil Trucks, that he got last season. Minnie Miñoso must hit as well as he did last year, when he pounded the ball at a .313 clip and was, in fact, the only real hitter on getting all this, and we'll concede for the sake of argument that he will get it.

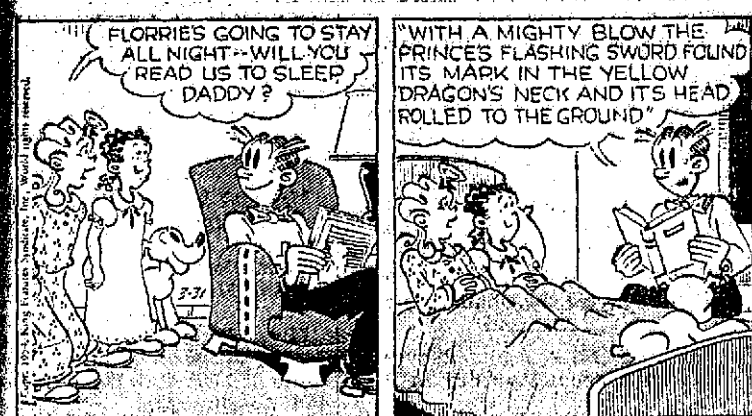

Then, to close that 11½-game gap which separated him from the Yanks on closing day, he must count upon finding another big-winning pitcher, preferably a left-hander, and he must be assured that several of his hitters, particularly Ferris Fain, will make good comebacks at the plate. Speed and fancy base-running will not be enough.

There is a great optimism among the Sox that they have found their added pitcher in Jack Harshman, the reformed first baseman who was a southpaw sensation in the Southern Association last season and in Puerto Rico this winter. Some think Harshman might win 18 or 20 games with the sharp defense he will have behind him. If he should, you will see a race.

KILL WITH CARE

THE STORY: An extortion case has resulted in the murder of a police chief and one of the city's real "brains" behind the law. The real "brains" behind the law, Chief Stone, was stabbed when he stepped to investigate the case. The body of a mental derelict, Eddie Stone, the mayor's son, was found beside a confession to the killing at a spot where extortion victims left their money. Also the son of Acting Chief Hughes seemed to be involved, but he cannot be found yet, questioning since young Tony Hughes in Denver.

XVII

Margaret Hughes sat alone in the living room when they returned there. Mr. Hughes went home for some things for us. Naturally, he was going to stay. To be with her when he wakes up. He—he'll be all right.

"It's good of you, Richards," said sincerely. "I wonder if you could tell us anything about the 'brains' tenant?"

"Mr. Nash, isn't it? I don't know too much about him. He works nights."

There's a back entrance to this building.

"Yes. Go through the kitchen, there's a back stairway and a small landing. For garbage disposal, meters and things such as that."

"Do you happen to know if Eddie Stone was in the habit of going in and out the backway?" Mark Richards asked.

"I don't know," she answered. "But from my knowledge of boys, I'd say it was highly probable."

Mark led the way through the kitchen out the back door to the small landing. He mounted the steep stairway to the upper landing and a locked door, came down again and directed his flashlight downward.

"We'd better go around and ring the bell," said Mansfield before we go down the decided. "I saw a light coming from the room when we came in this time. He's quite a character, Jim. Won't speak to local people."

Margaret Hughes stood at the head of the inside stairway and watched them go. This time Jim noticed strange movement of the hands under his feet.

Richards pushed Gaylord Mansfield's door. The door popped open, and a snarl-like man, whose face was in shadow, stood there holding a white placard so the flashlight would all on it.

The placard read "What do you want?"

"Good morning, Mr. Mansfield," Mark Richards said as if this early hour was his usual time for calling. "Wonder if we could talk to you for a short time?"

Mansfield hesitated, pulled an expensive brocade dressing gown over his head and turned, led the way through the entrance hall and a large, almost bare room, there was a huge flat-topped desk piled with papers. There was a single chair. There was an inconspicuous telephone resting on a corner of the desk.

Mansfield took the single chair, pulled a clean sheet of good quality paper from a freshly opened box and wrote rapidly. The movement of the old-fashioned typewriter's thudding trips on a sheet of concealed inkwell, spoke of haste.

No matter the time of day, or night, set aside for work, there was always inconsiderate interruptions. Please be brief.

His handwriting was small, neat, and entirely legible, though slightly old-fashioned like the pen he used.

"Have you heard of the death of Eddie Stone?" Mark asked.

Gaylord Mansfield leaned over and wrote "Yes Radio."

"Then you have heard the circumstances, of the extortion attempt?"

Mansfield wrote, "Attempts? I heard on the radio many had paid off. I had a letter—and a phone call. I could not be bothered. Certainly I have other uses for my money. I destroyed the letter, ignored the phone call. I have my work. He looked up at them curiously.

"What time was set for your payoff?" Mark asked.

"Eighty-fifty. But I didn't go. And you did not keep the letter."

Mansfield pushed the sheet of paper on which he had written earlier to Mark. There was a sign of growing irritation in the gesture.

Dunn saw the piles of papers on the desk were all filled with the same neat handwriting.

What you think of seed it's

MONTS SEED STORE

When you can park while you trade

Jim said, "It would have to be held firmly. Otherwise it would jump all the way downhill, snarling itself up as it went."

"Even if I grant you that, I still want to know why?"

"Could be a delivery system," Jim suggested. "A system that keep one man in the clear, even if anyone had been smart or quick enough to arrest the man on this end, Eddie Stone, to be exact."

The clump of heavy brush was about 10 feet from the base of the pole itself, much farther than it had appeared when the two men had looked down from above. Wads of paper were caught in the brush, and there were still more wads spread over a wider area by last night's breeze.

Mark Richards said, "The one bundle of pay-off money we found was wrapped in newspaper."

Jim walked to the base of the pole looked up toward the wires. From his first position, he managed to stare directly into the glare of the sun. He moved around the pole, waiting for his eyes to clear, stared up again. "Look up there, Mark. Right against that insulator."

"Sure. A pulley, isn't it?"

Jim Dunn nodded. "It's a little proof on my guess up at the station. You see how it could be, Mark. Eddie Stone collects the packets of the pay-off money at the station. He has a basket or something like that fastened to the pulley. He puts the money in the basket, lets it run downhill on the wire to the man waiting in that brush."

"I'm old enough," Richards said, "to remember those baskets that used to run around department store. Up to the change and wrapping counters."

"The general idea," Jim admitted. "And what made the basket go back up? or wasn't there but a single trip down?"

"That'd be taking a needless chance of Eddie getting caught with too much money. I'd say the basket made its trip up and down with each pay-off. A long string, Mark. Eddie Stone played out the string until the basket was in position until pulled it back up when it was empty."
